

9/11: Setting the Record Straight

On 9/11/2001, 3,000 transit workers responded at risk of life and limb in the rescue and recovery effort. Some were ordered to go; many went to volunteer on their own. You may have been one of them. But our story has not been told. In fact, Transit provided all of the heavy rigs that were so critical in the first three days. Our iron workers were first to cut the I-beams to clear the way for the rescue effort. Our buses and trains brought New Yorkers to safety and then ferried in first responders. Our titles labored for weeks at the pile, doing whatever was needed.

TWU Local 100 wants to set the record straight. We are making sure that the stories of transit workers at 9/11 are told. If you meet any of these three criteria, you are eligible to receive the TWU Local 100 9/11 Rescue and Recovery Recognition Award (pictured at right). To be presented with the Award, you must either:

- have an accepted workers' comp claim related to 9/11 service
- have been granted an award under the Zadroga Act /Victims Compensation Fund
- have settled a claim against the City of New York and defendants regarding 9/11 injuries/illnesses

A 9/11 commemorative pin of smaller dimensions will be given to any transit worker who can document their presence at Ground Zero.
